

Verb-Noun Analysis LinkedGym

The application is where the users can sign up as a coach or a trainee. The coach creates a profile to attract the trainees, who can sign up for a personalised workout schedule. In the application the users have the possibility to search, communicate with the coach or clients and keep track of their progress. The application has an in-built payment processor allowing the coaches to agree on a fee and ensure that they receive their money on time. The trainee can update their progress after each workout and over time see a progress bar chart of their improvement.
